Week of October 18th

It was nice having the opportunity to meet with parents last week. I hope you were able to learn about your child's successes and also academic and social goals for your child for his/her second grade school year.

Picture Day is this Wednesday, Oct. 20th. Our time to have pictures taken is before recess so fingers crossed everyone stays neat and clean.

Math: On Monday, I will send home last week's graded Exit Ticket for lessons 5-8. Please view, sign, and return by Friday.

This week we continue in Module 3- Place Value, Counting, and Comparison of Numbers to 1,000. Your child will take a mid-module assessment in class on Thursday. Wednesday and Thursday's homework will be printed worksheets given to your child in class.

Home Reading: Please help your child to write the title of his/her books on the provided reading log. The titles of the books should be written on the log before the books are returned to the classroom. This activity allows your child to practice with use of correct capitalization. Provided is an image of the directions for the home reading program.

Things to Remember:

- Make sure you have a water bottle at school.
- Have 1 or 2 extra masks at school just in case your mask breaks, gets dirty, or gets lost during recess and lunch.

Have a great week!

Directions for Home Reading Books

1. Your child will read their selections at least one time to themselves. Then he/she can read the book to other family members, relatives, or friends. I suggest that your child read his/her books to more than one audience.
2. Have your child write the title of his/her home reading selections on the Home Reading Log. Please help him/her to use capital letters at the beginning of each word in the title. Also, write the number of times the books are read by your child next to the book title.
3. Sign the Home Reading Log to indicate that the information is correct and complete. Write any comments that you may have about your child's reading, the book selection, or any other concerns that you may have in the 'Comments' section of the Home Reading Log.
4. Return the Home Reading Bag with the books and Home Reading Log enclosed. This bag will need to be returned each Thursday in order to check out new books.
